III. 1   What did you like about the class?

Lots of time to develop own website, gain experience working with html & css
Skills learned in class
I liked the in site the instructor provided.
Ability to create my own website, with guidance, assistance from Prof. Burnett on latest HTML5 & CSS3 info.
info was current and useful Excellent overview of a complex subject - good presentations of comparisons and resources in each area. Especially like that the instructor has taken the time to provide an ongoing reference online to continue to access the various resource lists and links.

III. 2 What didn't you like about the class?

No
N/A
nothing
I had a bit of difficulty getting up to speed at first, but that was probably because I had worked through the prerequisite materials myself rather than having been in the classes with the same instructor.

III. 3 What improvements would you suggest?

No
N/A none
I would like to see the instructor spend some time demonstrating more in depth how to use one of the frameworks. Instead of a cursory overview of each one.
At first it was not clear to me that all of the same links from the PowerPoints were also provided in much easier format on the instructor's website. I spent some time wrestling with PowerPoint until I figure out there was an easier way to get to the information.

III. 4 What other classes would you like to see offered?

JavaScript

N/A
More Adobe Creative Cloud non-credit
I'm taking 3 total classes this semester and for now I'm pretty happy with the offerings. Will keep watching the WDCE catalog, as I feel it always gives me a good overview of what is popular currently in the web development field.
